RESEARCH INTERESTS

Research interests are mainly inked to theoretical and methodological aspect of social work. I've been the first in Italy to experiment the systemic approach in social work publishing books on this topic and realising training courses on this new model.

Evaluation in social work is an other field of interest. I organised and chaired two workshops on that topic with some European contributions in the annual congress of Italian Society of Evaluation. I apply for funding to IASSW, presenting a project of research on the assessment of parental capacities and children needs.

European education is at present a great area of research and interest. All the activities linked to Thematic Network are oriented in this sense. I received a grant from the Italian University and Research Minister to realise a survey on the education in Europe with particular regard to the field training.

I've been involved in the dialogue between China and Europe related to social work education
